

Justin Hagler

Board of Directors

Representing CPUC

Justin Hagler.

Justin has been at the California Public Utilities Commission (CPUC) working as a Regulatory Analyst since March of 2015, and he was appointed to the CPUC's HVAC Energy Efficiency Team in November 2017.

Prior to joining the Energy Efficiency team, he was a member of the Generation and Transmission Planning team working on electric transmission planning on a regional scale. Now that he's joined the demand side of the meter, he works on Energy Efficiency policy development, and provides oversight to the Investor Owned Utilities' HVAC programs. He is most interested in how advances in HVAC technologies, and installation and maintenance techniques can lower ratepayers' electric bills.

Prior to 2015, he was with the Smart Grid Library, U.S. Department of Education, and the City of Belmont.

Justin graduated in 2013 with his B.S. in Society & Environment from UC Berkeley.
